Working at Total Communication

“At Total Communication, the team of Speech and Language Pathologists assess and manage a varied and dynamic caseload of children and adolescents with speech, language and communication needs and are motivated to deliver a high standard of clinical practice. The clinicians work closely with Occupational Therapists and Educational Therapists in the clinic as well as Psychologists, Paediatricians and Teachers externally to ensure strong collaboration within a multidisciplinary team. Collaborating with these professionals and the clients' families serves as a highly valuable experience that enables the clinicians to have a holistic view of their individual clients. In addition, the clinicians engage actively in pursuing Continuing Professional Development by attending conferences, workshops and in-service programs and delivering talks to other professionals. This provides rich and exciting learning opportunities and adds to their repertoire of skills as developing clinicians. I will look back on my experience at Total Communication as a fulfilling learning journey which has helped me grow as a clinician”. – Jodie Sills, SLP
